How to Make Personal Rights Safer The monometallists are bent upon de feating the efforts of the bimetallists to restore silver to the position which it oc-cupied before its demonstration in 1873. They offer all sorts of arguments in support of their contention that to open the mints of the country to free coinage would just as truly so as gold coins-and cannot be made too abundant, being limited by the production of the mines of the world. We know with reasonable accuracy how much gold and silver can be produced annually; but the "son of Strace" himself could not tell how many thousands of mil-lions of billions of fiat-greenbacks could be manufactured in a year, or, as to that matter, in a month.

To support their contention that the silver question ought to be overslaughed in current campaign in Ohio and elsewhere, the monometallists gravely tell us that there is no question of civil liberty or personal rights involved in the silver problem. Wonderful discovery! This remark is just as true of the issues that will be involved in the next presidential and congressional elections as of the silver problem. It is just as true of the tariff que tion as of the money question. In a word, in the sense in which it is intended to be understood, it is just as true o one politico-economic measure as of another. Be sure the Republicans know what they are after. If they next year elect their candidate for President of the United States and secure a majority in the House of Representatives they will at once proceed to pass the force bill, whether the main issue in the presidential and congressional elections of 1892 shall have been the tariff or the free coinage of silwer. Whatever may be their intentions and professions pending the campaign of next year, their first undertaking after they regain control of Congress and the presi dency will be to adopt measures which will have the effect of perpetuating the power of the Republican party. Surely voters cannot be deceived by the miserable argument-it does not deserve Anat name—that our personal liberties will be safe with a Republican President and Congress if we fight the Republicans this year and next upon the tariff question, out that we shall lose those liberties if we fight the Republicans this year and next upon the silver question. Do you believe that, intelligent reader?

Shall we be told that the contention of the monometallists is not exactly as we have supposed and represented it to be, but is that the Democrats of Ohio and tes will this year-and the Democrats of the whole Union will next yearfind that the tariff issue possesses morstrength with the people than does the proposition to provide for the free coinage of silver? But that is the very point on Buchanan-street location. which the Democrate of the Democratic tunity to reconsider, and this it will have, The Democrats of twenty-odd States have heretofore declared for free coinage. Innumerable Alliances favor free coinage The men who have hay-seed in their hair favor free coinage. The Democrats of Ohio favor free coinage. The Demo-crats of Kansas favor free coinage. The Democrats of Virginia favor their votes that they favor free coinage to declare in its national platform for that most important measure. Thus shall the southern people be saved from the horrors of the force bill if the Democratic party shall be the one to plant itself upon this impregnable position. Indeed, the silver issue would in itself constitute a protection of the South worthy of consideration. seeing that it would so divide the Repub licans as to place the whole party in the United States in the same position which the Republican United States senators occupied last spring when their regard for free coinage led them to assist the Democrats in the United States Senate in killing the force bill for the time.

Be not deceived. Your personal rights and civil liberties will be safer if silver be made the leading issue in this and next year's campaigns than if any other measure occupy that place of honor.

Persia to the Front-Again. Owing to the reported illness of the Bhah, the Persian phase of the Eastern question is again attracting attention, and considerable uneasiness is said to exist in would have been tak Cabinet circles in London. The game between Russia and England for preponder ance of influence in Persia has been in progress for a long while, and at present capital No. If you wish to interest the advantage as gained by diplomacy is people living at a distance in the business decidedly on the side of England. It will of your city put them on our subscription be remembered that when the Shah was list. making his last tour of Europe the British public became greatly exercised over the rumor that while he was in the Czar's domains he granted Russia the privilege of building from the Caspian through Khorassan a railroad that would parallel the trans-Caspian line, give the Czar two approaches to Herat, and open the way for an extension to the straits of Ormuz. But very lively for his enemies. whatever of truth there may have been in the rumor the concession did not materialize. The English had the last interview with the Chab, and as a consequence, British in-Meshed, the sacred city of the Shiah Mo

England has a strong grasp upon Beloochistan, can depend upon the friendship of the Sultan of Oman, and thus commanding the straits of Ormuz, is also enabled to maintain supremacy on the Persian Guif and the Karun.

Reasoning, however, from the events that preceded the accession of Nasa-roDus and the general history of Persia's dynastic quarrels, nothing would be more probable in case of the Shah's death than a revolution in Persis, and that readily accounts for the anxiety in London. Should Russis pursue her policy of interference in the "interest of peace." England could hardly do less as a matter of protection to her Eastern empire. The pursuance by Russis of the policy referred to would have for its object the absorption of Persian territory, as had Russia's last two wars with Persia. It is not unlikely that it would place her at if not within the gates of Teheran, a condition of affairs that it would seem would render it imperative upon England to make a counter-move in the way of territorial annexation. This would appear to be a logical outcome of the situation, not only in order to prevent Russia from threatening India via Herat, but to the end of keeping Russia from the Indian Ocean. It can hardly fail of recognition in London that if Russia, by reason of her greater nearness in a military sense than England to Teheran, should and British protection, thus involving a struggle that might cost a good deal in cause they are not posted as to the strength of the propositions which we have just referred to. We have before us a short report of a speech made last Tuesday before the Knights of Labor and farmers of two congressional districts in Texas, Presi. lent Powen, of Indiana, spoke as follows:

"He said he had locked across a gun-barrel at the South not many years ago, but he was here now to take them by the hand in a fight to the death against the two old parties, who were two old dogs trotting the same path. There had been a bloody chasm between the North and south for twenty-five years, but the people w cil that chasm with dead politicians, wipe out monepoly and plutocracy, and restore the Government to the people. The exception written across a greenback he held in his hand had destroyed the sovereignty be to debase the currency. It goes for no-thing that silver coins are real money— of the people, and the evils were aggravated when the exception was made against the silver dollar. He held a map in his hand illustrating the national banks, in which the people could not approach the Treasury, but showing a banker in 1886 receiving $60,000,000 from the Treasury hopper. He she displayed a map with a seesaw on the backs of two farmers on all fours, and a Republican and a Democrat on either end, and racy was cheered, and no sympathy was ma

However, we do not intend to argue these questions in this article. We simply desire to warn the people of the dangers which threaten them. Especially are we desirous of convincing the uncompromising capitalists, bankers, monometallists, &c., that they will have a hard road to travel if they undertake to refuse to concede any of the demands of the alliances.

The Lynchburg Virginian's leader of yesterday is a reply to Mr. ROYALL's assertion that we are "a branded people" because of 'the repudiation of our public debt." The Virginian denies the main fact alleged, and shows that a great deal of capital is coming into this State, and ascribes Mr. ROYALL'S failure to interest investors in his schemes to other causes; perhaps that they are not of a "taking character," or that Mr. Roy ALL "lacked skill and address in presenting them in an attractive or convincing manner; or that there was a general disnclination in London at present to make foreign investments because of the de pressed and unsettled financial situation. The Roanoke Herald also has an article taking somewhat the same view, and it speaks of Mr. Royall as "irrepressible."

Those who are protesting against the erection of the garbage crematory on the almshouse lot have at least made it plain that the City Council acted upon the matter hastily. It should have given the property-owners interested a reasonable portunity to present their views, and thus me would have been gamed rather than It may be that had it waited a few days longer it would have abandoned the idea, as it did the Buchanan-street site. Certain it is that there are five objectors in this case where there was one to the

The State Democratic Convention of Maryland yesterday passed resolutions complimenting Senator German and recommending his re-election. Well done. He was the recognized leader of our party in the Senate when the force bill was up, and free coinage. In a word, the people the Senate when the force bill was up, and of the entire United States will show by measure was defeated. During all that either of the great political parties of the troublons time he showed himself able in country shall next year have the courage debate, skilful in tactics, and abundant in troublous time he showed himself able in resources. Certainly he is entitled to b returned to his seat, and this is almost certain to be done. Indeed, from many quarters comes a call for him to go up

EDWIN BOOTH is said to be ill from the effects of strong eigars smoked by him. So it appears that all the evils of this description are not chargeable to cigarettes. Our advice to Mr. Вооти is to buy a Powhatan pipe and a package of old Virginia smoking-tobacco and he may prolong his life to a good old age. TENNYSON owes his fine health, at eighty-two, to having pursued this sagacious course.

Burglars, safe-blowers, and absconders front justice generally show that they either do not read the newspapers or have very little sense when they seek Richmond as a place of refuge. Our police have made a fine record in capturing such offenders.

Black Eyes and Bloody Noses, Followe by Arrests and Commitments to Juli-Eastern Shore History.

[Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch-] ONANCOCE, July 29,—On Sunday last while the colored people were holding re-ligious services in their church in Hock's Neck, Tom Downing and Jack Mathews. Persian capital, English influence in Khorassan and on the Persian Gulf would know to heave to heave the capital by English and finally came to blows. Some of their friends interposed to separate them, but inhave to be supplanted by British soldiers stead of stopping the fight they increased it, and soon ten or fifteen men were slugging each other in such a lively manner both blood and treasure.

Dangerous Talk.

We sometimes fear that our readers may think that we over-estimate the dangers which threaten the country from flat-greenbackism, banking by the Government, and sub-treasuryism. If any of them are of that opinion it is because the area of the opinion it is because th jury. ACCOMAC'S ANCIENT RECORDS. Judge John W. Gillet, for many years clerk of the Connty Court of Accomac and now judge of that court, is spending his leisure hours perusing the ancient court records of Accomac, which extend back in an unbroken series to 1663. These records are very voluminous and are remarkably well preserved, though somewhat difficult to read, owing to the curious chirography of the old clerks. Judge Gillet is making copicus notes from the records, which will be of great value to the future historian of Virginia. It is hoped that Judge Gillet may be induced to write a history of the Eastern Shore of Virginia, for which he is better fitted than any other person by reason of his fine ability and accurate and extensive acquaintance with the old records and traditions of this region.

MEMORIAL TABLET. In the account of the completion and dedication of the handsome new Equist church in this town recently published in the Draparen it should have been stated that a large and sightly marble tablet with appropriate inscription has been set up in the northeast wail of the church to the memory of the Rev. Patrick Warren, now deceased, who was the first master of the deceased, who was the first pastor of the Onancock church.

There are two agricultural fairs held every year on the Eastern Shore of Virginia—one at Cape Charles in Northampton, the other near Keller station, in Accomac. Both are well patronized, and in spite of the liberal premiums given for exhibits and for trials of speed these fairs are said to be paying good dividends to the stockholders. The Cape Charles Fair will begin August 17th and continue five days. The Accomac Fair will begin two weeks later. The success of these fairs is a good index of the presperity of this section. GOOD PRICES FOR POTATOES.

Sweet potatoes, the great staple crop of Accounce, are beginning to go to market in considerable quantities, and fancy prices are gotten for them. The crop, though later than for some years past, will probably be the largest in the history of the county. If good prices prevail money will be abundant in these parts for some time to come.

CAMP-MEETING SEASON.

The season for camp-meetings on the Eastern Shore is at hand. The colored seople are now holding one on the sen-ide, and in due time will begin one at savageville, a few miles south of this town. oks and nurses are now scarce, and peo-e keep a sharp eye on their hen-roosts nights.
